SORROWS OF THE SECRETARY.

Ciphering Correspondence Concerning the Crooked -- The Prosecution Closed.

By American Press Association to the STAR. Sr. Louis, Feb. 16 .- Counsel for the presecution gave notice upon the opening of Court yesterday, that other testimony would be received here from Washington to-day, respecting the dis-patches of December 3d and 5th between Babcock and Joyce, which have not been educated. been admitted.

The Court notified attorneys that i would not decide on the admissibility of the Avery dispatches until the defense was allowed to show whether or no Avery's name was known to the Grand

Alfred Bevis testified that Joyce showed him a dispatch from Babcock in December, and that said dispatch satisfied him that he would not be disturbed in making illicit whisky.

S. M. Barton, agent for the Bingham Brothers' distillery, took the stand, and testified that they had paid over $2,500 of a fund of $5,000 which was to go to Joyce, but witness was not permitted to state what disposition Joyce had expressed his intention of making of this fund.

James J. Brooks of Newark N. J. was the last witness called for the prosecution. He is Assistant Chief of the Secret Service Division.

He testified to the fact of his connection with Hogue, the absconding revenue agent. The cross-examination by Mr. Storrs showed that Mr. Brooks' testimony was considered no less essential to the defense than to the prosecution. The late cipher messages were ruled out by Judge D.ilon on the ground that they are privileged communications, bearing the same relation to the case as they are privileged communications bearing the same relation to the case as communications between client and at-communications between client and attorney.

The messages to and from Avery were read, but unless something changes the aspect of the case they will not be admitted as evidence. The counsel for the defeise courteously agreed to allow the prosecution to bring in witnesses to prove the admissibility of the dispatches of the 3d and 5th of December, after which Col. Dyer said the case for Government would rest.

At 3:45 the Court adjourned until this morning, to allow Ex-Attorney General morning, to allow Ex-Attorney General Williams, who will open for the defense time to examine the evidence and pre

THAT ADVISORY COUNCIL

Fairly Commenced.

By American Press Association to the STAR. BROOKLYN, Feb. 16 .- The Advisory Council of Congregational Churches, called to take action on Plymouth Church, assembled at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

It was a large and dignified body. At 2 o'clock Mr. Beecher ascended the plat-form and said the Church extended a welcome to all delegates. The Church welcome to all delegates. The Church appreciated the sympathy and sense of duty which induced their brethren to come from long distances when they called for succor. This second great Church Council convened in Brocklyn, and this, he was confident, would not be behind that of 1874 in ability and character, ident, would not be behind that of 1874 in ability and character, while it was the largest that ever convened in America to consider the affairs of a single church. After referring to the trials of Plymouth Church, Beecher said that its great heart was quited, and it stood as one man. To-day the dietions to be considered were both personal and otherwise, but she all the personal and otherwise, but she and was a liberty to follow their own inclination, unfettered by strict interpretation of letter, missive or any other rigid limits. For himselfaction, and desired that such an examination be made. After referring to the scenes of the revival, which many of the delegates had left, and invoking the blessing of God upon the Council, Mr. Beecher called for the nomination of a comporary Chairman. Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon, of New Haven, was nominated and unanimously elected. Rev. E. F. Howe, of Terre Haute, Ind., and Rev. S. B. Boyanton, of Newark, New Jersey, were chosen assistant Scribes.

The calling of the roll was then ordered, after which an adjournment till so clock was taken. The Council reassembled at eight o'clock. Dr. Edward Beecher addressed them on behalf of Plymouth Church, chiefly in reference to the first and second questions in the letter-missive.

The cook is almost worn out. iast night there was little but genuine enthusiasm. He deals freely with the text, and bends it to his own will whenever by so doing he can better render his own idea of the enigmatical character. His instruction to the actor is so remarkably fine that it impresses one even more than the solitoquy. Mr. Sullivan's "Hamlet" is remarkable, not so much in special points of difference in details, as in the fact that the whole play impresses the audience as being in striking con-trast with the solemn monotony that usually characterizes it. The support usually characterizes it. The support was the same excellent cast that won such approval at the previous presentation. Mr. Bradley's "Polonius" and Mr. Meade's "First Actor" were especially fine. To-night "Macbeth," for the first time by Mr. Sullivan in the city.

At the Ladies' family matinee this atternoon the "Colleen Bawn" by the regular company. Admission 25 cents to all parts of the house.

WOOD'S THEATER -Mrs. Booth last WOOD'S THEATER — Mrs. Booth 1881 night played the difficult role of "Beatrice" in "Much Ado About Nothing" in a manner that would at once have stamped her as a great actress if anything had been needed to do so after her reading of Juliet the previous evening. one that can play two such characters as they were played Monday and Tuesday evenings, must take high rank as an actress. The bill for this evening is "Camille," and one that has shown such versatility in the standard drama can not but acquit herselt with equal oredit in the favorite society plays.

Only Booth matines on Safurday.
